

December 19, 2023

We, members of the Writers Guild of America, demand that the Television Academy immediately reinstate the presentation of “Outstanding Writing for a Variety Series/Special” categories during the main Emmy Awards telecast.

Writing is the bedrock of variety programming, and it is unthinkable that the Television Academy would choose to sideline our contribution to the genre only months after writers spent 148 days on strike to receive the recognition we deserve for the work we help create.

The Academy’s decision to erase the variety writing award from the Primetime Emmy Awards broadcast dismisses writing as the foundation for excellence in television, and devalues our profession as a whole.

We implore the Television Academy to do the right thing and present the award for “Outstanding Writing for a Variety Series/Special” categories during the primetime Emmy telecast this year, and in all future years.

In solidarity,

Megan Abbott
